Member Roles

An identity provider (IDP) creates, maintains and manages identify information, providing it to other service providers (such as a carrier or solution provider) within a Trust Framework federation such as SignOn Once. For example, an agent signs into the management system and is able to access multiple systems and websites under this one identity. The management system vendor is creating that identity.

A relying party (RP) "trusts" the identity information passed from an identity provider, relying on the provider's authentication for access to the provider's systems and/or websites. For example, a carrier is considered a relying party when credentials are sent from an agent's management system during a real-time policy inquiry. Rather than requiring the agent to enter a user ID and password, the carrier "trusts" the identity authentication from the management system and does not ask for additional passwords.
